Flûtes Légères Founded in 1986, they are a quartet of local flute players who originally met while teaching the flute (and other instruments) for Hampshire Music Service. Flûtes Légères play together mainly for their own pleasure, but also perform at charity events, weddings etc. Their repertoire ranges from Bach to jazz and includes many popular classics. They always enjoy preparing for performances and every rehearsal ends with tea and cake—preferably chocolate!

Malcolm Porter After graduating from the Guildhall School, Malcolm played viola in the Bournemouth Symphony Orchestra then pursued a career in high school and sixth form college class music teaching. Now mainly working as a viola maker, he enjoys the occasional outing as a viola player and conductor.

Ellabeth Little Ellabeth studied on the Specialist Music Course at Peter Symonds College, played in the National Youth Chamber Orchestra, and led the Hampshire Chamber Orchestra. Currently teaching locally both privately and at Mountbatten School, Ellabeth gives regular recitals and has a particular passion for enthusing young people in their love for music.
